

Whistlin' Will's Wild Ride

Boom Town has been quiet for some time thanks to Town Marshall "High Country Amigo". Helped by his faithful deputies "Low Country Amigo" and "Senorita Itchy Finger" he was able to rid Boom Town of desperadoes, drunks, and snake oil salesmen.

Yes it had been quite peaceful of late except of course for those times when "Kananaskis Kid" decided to show his face. He could be a "burr" in anyone's saddle, and High Country certainly had to show restraint. But the "Kid" was not High Country's problem now.

Whistlin' Will and his gang of wild teenaged desperadoes are on the loose. Raiding every town, farm, and homestead they come upon. No one is safe from these ruffians. They are on their way to Boom Town, and High Country knows that "time outs" won't work this time...

Stage One: Sarsaparilla Thirst

Whistlin' Will and his gang are thirsty. After a long ride they mean to drink the town dry of any sugary drink they can find. The town's supply of soda pop is at stake, and Boom Town needs someone brave enough to face Will and his gang.

Location: Train Station/General Store

Stage Two: Sprinkles Please...

Since drinking the town dry of all its' soda pop didn't work out for Will, and his nefarious gang he's now setting his sights on the town's ice cream emporium. They aim to get their sugar some how, and cleaning out Boom Town of its' frozen treats could be a tasty way for Will, and his gang to do it.

Location: Barber Shop/Ice Cream Emporium

Stage Three: Lead Deposit at the Bank

Whistlin' Will, and the boys are getting really riled up. Their plans for the town's sarsaparilla supply and the ice cream went up in smoke thanks mainly to Ticklewood Kid, and Swede Olsson's efforts. Now Will, and his gang mean to shoot up the town bank, for no other reason than they happen to be in front of it. Teenagers...

The town Marshall is getting a might frustrated with these youngsters, and is loading up the rock salt.

Location: Bank

Stage Four: Fiasco

After riding for so long, sitting down has now become an effort for the rowdy gang. Will and the boys are now whipped up into a frenzy. They mean to get their vengeance on Boom Town's lawmen, but first they need some of that salve they have at the General Store. Reg Ryder, and his staff ain't willin' to part with any of it without getting paid first. Will and his boys must be stopped.

Location: Train Station/General Store

Stage Five:

Reg Ryder, and his hardy staff thwarted Whistlin' Will, and his gang. Will and his desperadoes have gone from sore, and angry to just plain mean. They aim to make Boom Town pay for their misfortune. Attacking the fort, and putting Boom Town to the torch seems to be the only thing that will make 'em happy.

The fort is commanded by Kananaskis Kid in name only. Little Edgy, the fort cook is the one really in charge. He ain't gonna let this gang attack his post.

Town Marshal High Country Amigo, and his deputies are there to help, with some more rock salt loads...

Location: The Fort
